

REV. C. E. SPRAGUE TO LEAVE CHATTANOOGA

Preaches Farewell Sermon at Avondale Sunday—Goes to Cleveland, Tenn.

At the Avondale Baptist church Sunday evening, Rev. Claude E. Sprague will end his ministerial services as one of Chattanooga's resident preachers.

Rev. Sprague has been selected as pastor of the leading Baptist church in Cleveland, and on the first day of June he takes possession of his new charge. Within the next ten days he will move to that city, where he has rented a house in a desirable locality. When he goes to Cleveland he will not find a church building in which to hold his meetings, but will be compelled to conduct them in a public hall. The congregation to whom he is to preach as pastor has recently torn down the old building and among the new pastor's first duties will be to superintend the erection of a new structure, arrangements for which have already been perfected. When built it will be among the best of Cleveland's church buildings.

As a church builder Rev. Sprague has shown his aptitude, as several are to his credit. When it falls to his lot to raise funds for this purpose he is always there with the gods, and it is believed this effort will prove as successful as those heretofore manipulated by him.
